

LDD 10 Table of contents

Editors' introduction	5
Niclas Burenhult, Arthur Holmer, Anastasia Karlsson, Håkan Lundström and Jan-Olof Svantesson

List of Contributors	12
----------------------	----

Part 1: Music and language

Song-poetry of Central Australia: sustaining traditions	15
Myfany Turpin

Tone in speech and singing: a field experiment to research their relation in endangered languages of North East India	37
Stephen Morey & Jürgen Schöpf

Assessing music shift: adapting EGIDS for a Papua New Guinea community	61
Neil R. Coulter

Language and music in the songs of Minto, Alaska	82
Siri G. Tuttle

Part 2: Prosody

The Wichita pitch phoneme: a first look	113
David S. Rood

Conversation in Upper Tanana Athabascan: syntactic and prosodic patterns 132
Olga Lovick & Siri G. Tuttle

Intonation in Ryukyuan: with reference to modality, syntax, and focus 177
Yasuko Nagano-Madsen

Part 3: Grammar and meaning

Elusive articles in Sulawesi: between syntax and prosody 208
René van den Berg

Main clause TAM-marking in Ngarla (Pama-Nyungan), in comparison with two neighbouring languages 228
Torbjörn Westerlund

Grammaticalization of tense and aspect in Mbugwe: a preliminary investigation 247
Vera Wilhelmsen

The increasing importance of animacy in the agreement systems of Ndengeleko and other Southern Coastal Bantu languages 265
Eva-Marie Ström

Exploiting syntax to circumvent morphology: word order as a means for marking grammatical categories 288
Cynthia I. A. Hansen

The perception verbs in Lussese (Bantu J10): a matter of experience 307
Marilena Thanassoula